

ABSTRACT

Methods and computer software products are provided for analyzing gene expression data. In one embodiment, linear programming is used to estimate relative transcripts. Bootstrapping methods are used to obtain confidence interval for estimators.